A much appreciated thank you goes out to Irwin Seidman for the wonderful information session on “Safety in the Workshop”.

Some of us took the opportunity to purchase the Triton Respirator while it was on sale. Others purchased the cloth face mask which does a great job protecting against wood dust; is easily carried around in a pocket and when necessary, can easily be washed out.

Irwin went through some of the materials which are toxic in our workshops and very hazardous to our health.

New members took the opportunity to try out turning for the first time. Peggy set up the lathe and helped each of them get started.

Congratulations on starting up a new hobby! Feel free to make use of all our facilities as well as the knowledge our turners have acquired through many years at turning.

It is great to see all the new members who have joined our Guild this Fall!

OCTOBER MEETING

Hands On This Month

Bring in some tools and wood and do some turning with us. Help is always available from our knowledgeable members. New members are welcome to use the Guild's equipment at this meeting or after any general meeting.

LIBRARY

Our Library has many good books, magazines, DVD and Tapes available for members to sign out.

This is a great way for new turners to get information on all aspects of turning, and for experienced turners to find new projects and techniques to try out. When you read or watch anything of particular interest, or pertaining to what is happening at our meetings, please bring the material to our attention so others may benefit from it as well.

Also, if you have materials you are through with and would like to contribute them to our Library, we would be grateful for your generosity.

CHRISTMAS IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Are you making gifts and Christmas decorations?

Would you like to share them with our members?

Our December meeting will still give us a short time to try out new ideas. We also have many new members who, I'm sure, would find these turned Christmas Decorations very interesting.

They are so very different from anything available in the stores.
